

Abstract of the Disclosure

A container apparatus is provided that has an inner container and an outer container. The inner container has a first upper edge and holds a substance in a first space inside the inner container. The outer container is coupled to the inner container, and a second space is defined between the inner container and the outer container. When the substance flows out of the first space inside the inner container and over the first upper edge, the substance is received in the second space.